Al Thompson has held the program's shot put record since 1954.
Ben Johnson (above), the greatest short distance sprinter in Columbia history, ran 6.1 seconds for the semifinals of the 60-yard dash at Madison Square Garden in 1938. In the final, he was clocked at 6.0, but the officials decided Johnson the new time, because, according to an article written by Lew King, the records committee would not believe that anyone could run that fast. He was credited with a time of 6.1. Johnson’s school record in the 60 meter dash (6.80), set in 1939, has stood for almost seven decades.
Sharay Hale '12CC, the highly accomplished sprinter holds a number of Columbia records.

- Delilah DiCresceno '05CC (pictured, left) holds the school and stadium records in the 3000m Steeplechase.
A local athlete from Pelham Manor, New York, Henry Stoddard “Harry” Babcock had an eventful year in 1912, as he graduated from Columbia with an engineering degree and claimed a gold medal in the Olympic Games. Babcock set an Olympic record at the time, clearing 12’11.5” (3.95m) to earn the Gold, while he also participated in the decathlon at the Olympic Games. He won the 1909 IC4A Bronze Medal in the long jump while at Columbia.

2012 London Games
Dominica - 400m

One of the most decorated athletes in Columbia track & field history, Erison Hurtault served as the flag bearer for his parents home nation of Dominica during the 2012 London Games. The 2007 grad took part in the 400m dash, clocking a 46.05 in the first round.

At the 2016 Rio Games, Akua Obeng-Akrofi was one of five women that represented Ghana on its 4x100m relay team. Confidence gained from that experience helped the ’18CC sprinter break two school record and pick up a pair of Ivy League titles the following season.

Maxie Long ‘1900
Games of the II Olympiad
Gold Medalist - 400m

Although his Columbia blue uniform was mistaken for a French outfit during the Games of the II Olympiad in Paris, Maxwell Warburn “Maxie” Long would set the record straight. With a time of 49.4 seconds, Long won the Gold Medal in the 400m in 1900. The Waverley, Massachusetts, native would become the world record holder from 1900-1912 with a time of 47.8 in the 440 yard run.
